

World Peace in a Jar

You hold in your hands a bit of world peace, which together with all the bits that everyone else will soon hold, can be opened and let loose on the world simultaneously to bring - you guessed it - world peace.

Store in a bright warm place. Kitchen window-sill works great. Hold often.

This jar is equipped to generate about 3 more jars of world peace each week. You may be able to care for yours to generate more. If you wish, you can pour a bit of it into more jars and pass each to a friend, acquaintance, or anyone really, with a copy of these directions.

Once all the bits of peace have been distributed, we will have a coordinated newscast for everyone in all languages throughout the world during a coordinated world minute for everyone to open their jars and let each of their pieces of peace out.
